Water and utilities reductions from staff training and using a monitoring system with daily utility readings so we can see quickly any changes and areas to target for savings.

Personal testimony

Most of the Green actions taken have also given the company cost savings so in these tight times a good thing to do for the environment and also profits.

Key lessons

I would have fitted more metering on services at source points, if you know where utilities are being used it is easier to pinpoint savings.

Where did I get my advice?
